

Do Something for ME

Why ME?

Emerge Australia advocates for, educates about, and provides information on, Myalgic Encephalomyelitis (ME) more commonly known as Chronic Fatigue Syndrome (CFS).

We believe that until a cure is found, people affected by ME/CFS can lead better lives by being understood & supported by the medical and general communities.

Do Something for ME is a campaign to raise awareness about ME/CFS in the general community and to raise funds to support Emerge Australia to continue its work.

You can Do Something for ME all year round. No matter when your event is held, Emerge Australia is there to support you with advice and resources to make sure your event turns out the best it can be.

Do Something for ME

How does it work?

You decide that you'd like to Do Something for ME. You have a think about what that might be—you might want to raise awareness about ME/CFS in your workplace or at your school or your local club or library. You might also decide to raise some funds for Emerge Australia to continue its work.

You go to <http://emerge.org.au/do-something-for-me/> and register. We see what you need and how we can help and then we send you a kit to get you started. You hold your event—and more people know about ME/CFS!

If you have any questions, just email us information@emerge.org.au and we'll do our best to help you.
